

A message from the Superintendent

Hi everyone,

Next week we kick off the start of a new school year. Our faculty and staff returned this week, busily getting classrooms, hallways, and our buildings and grounds ready for the return of students.

I wanted to give you a quick update on a few things you may or may not be aware of.

Open Houses

Parents and guardians should have received a letter and information about open houses and the directions for the first days of school. If you have not, please call your school's office to make sure we have your correct contact information and to get the details you need.

Free Lunch For All EW Students This Year

The East Windsor Public Schools wish to remind you that we are once again this year offering free breakfast and lunch to all students. This is part of a state grant program that enables us to do so.

Covid Updates

While we are cautiously optimistic that the Covid pandemic is behind us, please note that we encourage all families to monitor symptoms and take all necessary and recommended precautions. The EWPS will continue to share information on its website and send updates home should they be necessary or if new information is released by local, state, or federal health officials.

EW Website Update

We are in the process of building a new website for our school system that will better meet the needs of our community, make information more accessible, and share updates. The work is underway and we expect a launch of the new site in October. Stay tuned.

Looking ahead

We are looking forward to a great year. We have implemented a district wide plan to give each and every child the personalized learning she or he needs to reach their potential and succeed in school and beyond. In the coming weeks and months, we will be sharing more about our focus on success.

Thanks,
Patrick
